

Official Boneyard Press Kit San Salvador, El Salvador, 2025

Boneyard is an Americana and rock and roll band from San Salvador, El Salvador, that has been making music for several decades. Established in 1992, they began as a cover band significantly influenced by icons such as Led Zeppelin, The Beatles, and The Rolling Stones. In the late 1990s, Boneyard shifted to writing original songs, making a notable impact on the local music scene under the name "Jardín de Huesos." After their disbandment in 2000, the band reunited in 2017 under the name "Boneyard" for a reunion concert, which included a new song called "Come Back."

During the 2020 pandemic, they remotely recorded a four-song pre-production EP titled #lockdownsessions, which includes tracks that appear on their recently released self-titled LP, "Boneyard," available on all streaming platforms since December 5, 2024.

Musical Influences

Boneyard's style merges the timeless essence of rock with elements from genres like blues, folk, and country rock.

Members

Boneyard consists of its four founding members, who have preserved a close friendship throughout the years:

Carlos Chinchilla: Vocals, rhythm guitar, and harmonica.

Carlos "Piopi" Avilés: Bass

Diego Muyshondt: Percussion and drums.

Juan Carlos "Pandi" Cerdón: Lead and slide guitar.

Recent Releases

The eagerly awaited 12-track album is named "Boneyard." It was produced by the band in collaboration with Latin Grammy winner Omar Vivoni. It was released digitally on all main streaming platforms on December 5, 2024, and will soon be available as a limited-edition vinyl.

This LP showcases strong and genuine songs, characterized by a sound that merges the essence of Southern rock with that of blues and country rock.

The album's first single, "Off My Mind," now features an official music video on their official YouTube channel. Off My Mind - Boneyard
